

Call for Industry Poster Proposals

Alongside a strong academic program of peer-reviewed presentations, IEEE GLOBECOM 2019 includes an attractive Industry Program including Industry Posters, which are focused presentations and short demonstrations on communication products of high interest to industry and commerce. GLOBECOM welcomes Industry Posters from diverse sources including industry, academia, government, and in particular from startups and small corporations.

Industry Posters will consist of 3 hour sessions each presenting up to 6 posters. Each poster session is divided into two 1.5 hour sessions. During the first 1.5 hours, each presenter will be given about 10-15 minutes to briefly present the topic, the product, and the company as well as give a short demonstration of the product. During the second 1.5 hours, the audience will get a one-on-one or small group opportunity to discuss the product in-depth with the presenter as well as an opportunity for the presenter to give a more detailed demonstration. A set of Industry Posters is an excellent way to rapidly and compellingly share the latest information about diverse products from several presenters, and for the audience to then get a more in-depth understanding of a few interested products in an efficient way.

Topics may include, but are not limited to:

- Personal area communications
- Unified messaging
- Communications in medicine
- Fog and other network edge technologies
- Vehicle communications and control
- Development of the Internet of Things
- Green communications
- Social networking
- Smart cities

Industry Poster sessions will be scheduled on Tuesday (December 10), Wednesday (December 11) and Thursday (December 12) of the conference and will be held on the Exhibits floor.
